VIDEO: Digital February

Stockport Council with a variety of partner organisations showcased some of the benefits of going online during the month of February, with a number of Community Roadshows which supported citizens in getting online or sharpening their online skills. At First House, Brinnington Digital Ambassadors showed residents online tools to support job seeking; how to use My Account to find personalised information about Council services and the benefits of going online to speed up enquiries with the Council.

VIDEO: Stockport first DigiFest was a crowd-puller

Over 800 people poured into Central Library and the Hat Works Museum on 18th February for our first ever DigiFest. 'The Glass Work' digital art installation drew a crowd tweeting their photos which were magically turned into tunes and chimed out from the glass gongs. Budding developers enjoyed free coding lessons and a variety of hands-on interactive activities. Future game designers learnt about Minecraft Coding. Young people enjoyed art-making robots and DIY touch-screen gloves, learned to solder, use 3D printer and designing game characters. People we are able to get help with their own devices in the Digi Drop-in.
